story of the women's event that a finalist has withdrawn.

Mrs. Moody's only explanation of the unprecedented action was "my legs gave out."

It was believed, however, that the back injury which prevented her play in the recent Wightman Cup matches had so weakened her that she was unable to stand the terrific heat and the hard pace set by Miss Jacobs from the opening set.

A few minutes after the players disappeared into the exits, Miss Jacobs reappeared for the cup presentation, and was given an ovation that broke all Forest Hills records. For fully five minutes the spectators forgot their dignity.

Mrs. Moody's defeat today cost her her chance of equalling Molla Mallory's record of eight National championships, and marked her first loss since Mrs. Mallory defeated her at Rye in 1926.

The match was played under a glaring sun that beat down with furnace heat. The stadium courts, soggy yesterday when Miss Jacobs disposed of Dorothy Round of England, were baked lightning fast today.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

BEVERLY HILLS, Aug. 26. (To the Editor of The Register.) California has a murder trial going on out here now (some professor is supposed to have killed his wife,) so you all know when your home-town papers can scare up a good murder trial, why, that's just like striking pay dirt, so I don't know what Hugh Johnson is doing with the auto code, how Secretary Wallace of Agriculture is making out trying to keep pigs from growing up, what Cordell Hull is doing toward making international conferences useful as well as decorative, what Secretary of Labor Miss Perkins is doing to see that everything in the N. R. A. is not unionized, or is unionized, or whatever they decided to do with it. As I say, we got a murder trial, and we don't know a thing in the world that is happening outside of that, so pardon my ignorance.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

LAMSON DEATH DEFENSE GETS MATERIAL AID

stantiate Mrs. Lamson's story that caused Lamson to sleep apart from her the night before the killing.

State Contention
The state contends that Lamson killed his wife in rage when he learned she had duped him, or that their fatal quarrel resulted from jealousy of the wife at Lamson's friendliness with Sara Kelley, blonde divorcee and former Stanford co-ed.

Dr. Slater refused to admit that "blows" caused the skull fractures or that a "blunt instrument" was used.

"I would say a blunt force was applied," he asserted.

Q.—Isn't it more probable that the larger lacerations were caused by a fall than by a blow from a blunt instrument?

A.—I wouldn't say more probable, but just as probable.

Dr. Slater testified that condition of the blood in Mrs. Lamson's body indicated she had been dead but a "short time" when the discovery was made at 10 a. m. The state contends she was killed early in the morning.

out, however, that the present crude production is 500,000 barrels daily in excess of consumer demand. When the critical memorandum was drafted it was feared that crude oil produced at considerably increased prices under code conditions and that major producers with large surpluses would gain tremendous and unearned profits at the expense of the public.

The code contains specific safeguards against such contingencies. The withdrawals of crude oil from storage are limited to 100,000 barrels daily for the remainder of 1933.

The president may designate a federal agency to balance consumer demand against production and allocate production in such a way that the sale of petroleum or petroleum products by companies or even individuals would be rigidly regulated.

SAN CLEMENTE RECALL VOTE ON OCTOBER 2

Citizens of San Clemente will hold their first recall election on October 2, the Spanish village city council having set that date at a special meeting last night, after City Clerk William Holmes had certified that 85 of the 94 names on a recall petition were those of qualified voters. Seventy-two was the required number.

Mayor Thomas F. Murphy and Councilmen Earl Van Bon Horst and Oliver R. Robertson are the recall targets. Voters will be privileged to vote for the recall of one or all three of the councilmen. The ballot will include the proposition: "If the recall prevails, shall the council fill the vacancies by appointment or shall a special election be held?"

The councilmen are charged with inefficiency and extravagance among other things.

In his report, City Clerk Holmes accounted for the nine names stricken off from the petition. Holmes said that five were not signed on the petition as on the affidavit of registration, women whose names were legally registered with their own given names on the petition used their husband's name, two were struck out on account of no residence shown, but merely the postoffice, one name was struck off because the signer was not a qualified voter at time of signing, and one for non-residence in San Clemente.

Ten of those signing the petitions have left San Clemente since doing so, with intention of making permanent residence elsewhere, it was reported.

Mayor Murphy named the election officers as follows: Winston L. Keel, inspector; Roy Strang, judge; J. C. Henderson, clerk; Henry L. Moore, clerk.

SAYS NATIONS UNION MEETING MUST TURN TO SCHEDULE FOR GOD FOR NEEDS BAPTIST CHURCH

FULLERTON, Aug. 26.—Groups from Huntington Park and Santa Ana were present at the Fullerton Gospel tabernacle, 124 East Commonwealth avenue, Thursday to hear the Rev. W. A. Staub, district superintendent of the Christian and Missionary Alliance.

In his message on Elijah at the Brook Cherith (I Kings, Chapter 17), he showed that the name Elijah literally means in the Hebrew language, "Jehovah is the True God" (Eli-Jah). He declared that when any nation returns to God in a true, spiritual way, prosperity comes to that nation, but when a nation is independent of God, then periods of famine and distress come. Even as God made the widow a blessing to Elijah and Elijah to the widow, so God makes trusting and faithful Christians a blessing to one another, he said. An altar service followed the sermon.

FIVE APPEAR AT CRIMINAL COURT SESSION

Five men appeared in criminal court yesterday before Judge James L. Allen on charges ranging from statutory offense to non-support.

Melvin A. McFadden, 22, of La Habra, appeared on a charge of statutory offense against a 14-year-old La Habra girl, whom he had met at a Sunday school picnic. McFadden applied for probation, hearing on which was continued until this afternoon.

McFadden was placed on probation in 1928 for petty theft and in 1932 he was held on charge of investigation for possession of liquor, and grand theft, both of which counts were dismissed. He told the court he had been out of work and has been living with his parents.

The defendant said he had offered and was willing to marry the girl, but the girl denied this on the witness stand. The Rev. H. O. Simmons, La Habra minister, told the court he believed McFadden should have probation but that it would not be wise for him to marry the young girl.

Peter N. Soullas, charged with possession of a firearm by an alien, pleaded not guilty to the charge. A trial by jury was set for September 28. The defendant is a native of Greece.

M. A. Rose, charged with issuing a bank check with intent to defraud, pleaded guilty and asked for probation. Hearing on the application for probation was set for next Friday.

Judge Allen ordered the dismissal of the case against John W. Reed, charged with non-support of five minor children by his wife, Fannie Reed, on the grounds of insufficient evidence to find him guilty. The defendant was warned, however, to make good or he might get into serious trouble.

C. J. McNaughton appeared in court and made application for probation on a charge of issuing a fictitious check. The hearing was continued until next Friday.

Bank Installs New Type Alarms For Vault Protection

As a further protection against safe robbers, who have been active in California during the past year, the Security-First National Bank has contracted for the installation of an improved burglar-alarm system in all of its 123 branches. It was announced today by Frank J. Was, manager of the Santa Ana branch. The order was the largest of its kind ever placed in the United States.

The new precaution is an electrical sound-wave alarm system. Part of the apparatus consists of microphones and transmitting devices situated within each bank vault. These are designed to transform the sound vibrations caused by hammering, drilling, burning, or other methods of attack into an alarm which will sound outside of the branch bank building.

BETTERMENT OF WATER SUPPLY GETS RESULTS

Steps being taken in Orange county to conserve the present water supply and for importation of foreign waters was commended in a letter received by C. A. Palmer, Land bank agent for Orange county, from Walter C. Dean, secretary of the Federal Land bank at Berkeley.

The letter came following announcement that the bank would accept applications for agricultural loans from all parts of the county, a direct result of the water conservation efforts and preliminary data presented to bank officials by Prof. S. T. Harding, consulting engineer who made a survey of the water situation in this county for the bank.

Text of the letter received by Palmer follows: "As you know, the Federal Land Bank of Berkeley has had some question with respect to the irrigation water supply in certain parts of Orange county. Some of the local people have understood that the bank had withdrawn from the entire county, but such has more emphatically never been the case.

"Faced with the fact that complete and definite data regarding water supply was not available for Orange county, the bank, as you know, engaged Professor S. T. Harding, consulting engineer in hydraulics and irrigation to gather and analyze the available data on ground water conditions and water resources and make whatever supplemental investigations necessary and then report to the bank. While Professor Harding has not yet completed his final report, he has gone far enough in his studies to arrive at some general conclusions which he has presented to the bank as a preliminary statement.

"The bank has concluded it is justified in accepting applications for loans from all parts of the county. While it is again brought to our attention that an overdraft on the ground water supply exists in the general Santa Ana area, it does not seem that the extent of this overdraft is as serious as previous data indicated. It is encouraging to know that steps are now being taken to conserve available water supply and to import foreign water. While it seems that the water table will likely continue to lower, the rate of lowering will be greatly reduced and possibly arrested altogether by conservation measures and the importation of other waters.

"The bank will, of course, observe with interest all projects looking toward an improvement of the irrigation water supply situation."

If he advances them, a lot of Blue Eagles can try out their wings. If he doesn't, it may be just too bad for a number of patriotic code-signers.

Scrooge is going to be asked to advance money for payrolls on 90-day terms.

The signing of a code means higher pay and shorter hours. Combined, this may run production costs up as high as 50 per cent in many cases.

The manufacturer must send his product out at a higher price. In the normal run of business it takes about 90 days to settle all around.

Will the bankers finance NRA factories over this period? Quite a few business men have signed the dotted line here are leaving for home to find out.

There may be a gamble involved and bankers notoriously don't like gambles unless they control the wheel.

The question which may be rising in Scrooge's glass eye is whether or not the ultimate consumers are going to buy in sufficient quantities at higher prices to make his loan safe.

If he gets an idea they won't—whether justified or not—he'll probably call for more freezing salt.

Should NRA devolve into a banking issue, with the bankers holding out like Babe Ruth in early spring, the administration will push its new remedy hard.

It will loan Blue Eagles government money in direct competition with the banks at lower rates of interest. And once that jackpot opens, the game is for table stakes.

President Roosevelt has the power. Mussolini exercised similar authority in Italy once until the bankers were all playing on his team.

WILTED COLLARS

The mention of higher prices to the consumer raises another question.

The unorganized white collar man, with a fixed income and no fighting union leader to fight his battles for him, is writing here for the answer. Assuming that another injection of F. D. R. emergency remedy is about to be administered to the country, will it be direct inflation?

Prices of necessity are being inflated by NRA operations. Printing-press operations, by whatever name they may be called, would merely sock it into the white collar man—the ultimate consumer of socks—much harder.

LICENSING

At the moment the administration is soft-peddling talk of inflation with both feet. It is coming, but those who manipulate the stops on our financial organ aren't quite ready with that one out as the public can hear how high the note is pitched.

In certain solid-thinking government circles the thought is being advanced it might be better first to carry NRA a step further. That is, crack down on recalcitrant industries with the biggest tooth NIRA has—the licensing provision.

Its backers say this would carry a little deeper into modified socialism, but wouldn't be so painful on the middle classes.

JAM
A certain American shipping line seems to be on the verge of getting itself all tied up with the government.

Some time back the head of this line negotiated successfully with Washington for the acquisition of some of the U. S. lines, but as the months went by no money was forthcoming in payment therefor.

Federal agents were sent out to look over the line's books.

The books were somewhat jumbled up, according to preliminary reports.

But it was ascertained that the line's head had been awarded a commission of $250,000 for negotiating the U. S. line deal. This was being paid in regular installments, while Uncle Sam went begging for his dough. Further, the books revealed that the line had an attorney at $50,000 a year.

Three years ago this attorney was loaned $100,000 on which neither interest nor principal has even been paid.

Orders went out to discontinue further payments to either man until the government's claim was cleared up.

MELLON'S
The aluminum trust is back in town trying to get an NRA code with the independents snapping at its heels.

There are three phases of this business. First, production of aluminum up to the ingot stage; second, semi-fabricating; and, third, manufacture of kitchen utensils and all the other things this metal goes into.

The trust controls the first phase 100 per cent; the second, 75 per cent, and even manages to wrangle 50 per cent of the profits from finished products. Because the latter come in competition with things made from other metals, they go into a separate code.

Five independent mills are engaged in semi-fabricating. This group is trying to force the trust into an agreement not to undersell ingots to itself.

Several weeks back the trust allowed it would submit a code for itself alone, the same to be accepted without public hearing. NRA said nay.

This time the five independents are at least going to get a hearing.

NOTES
If you were working in NRA and somebody tossed a proposed code on your desk for the "Chuck Industry," which way would you turn for information? . . . A "chuck"—nearly as we can ascertain—is some kind of a gadget for power-operated tools. . . . Or maybe you'd rather wrestle with the code for the Shoulder Pad Manufacturers? . . . This has nothing to do with football. . . . It's the business that goes into the shoulders of coats to make round-shouldered men look robust. . . . It remained for the pencil industry, employing a total of 3409 workers, to submit the biggest code. . . . It runs 93 pages and tells everything but the right ages of the lady employees.

"STRIKE"
It seems that Washington has an idea the investment houses have gone on strike.

The dearth of good security issues from responsible sources since the Security Act went into effect has been noted with pain.

It must be a conspiracy or something. So Professor Rogers of the second edition brain trust was sent to New York to reason with the boys. He did his best. But he got the same answer everywhere he went. "There ain't going to be no security issues as long as the present law stands."

Apparently Washington thinks Wall Street is kidding and will yield under pressure. But the "strike" is not intended as a nose-thumbing gesture. Local houses sincerely believe that the risk involved in the act far outweighs any underwriters' profits. "At least the law doesn't say that we have to issue securities."

PROTESTS
Protests against the Securities Act are beginning to drift in from other quarters. Business concerns in small cities which do only local financing have discovered to their surprise that they are included. If they use the United States mails to float their little issues they have to go through as many motions as a billion-dollar corporation. New York sees indications that this condition will stir up an avalanche of squawks.

Then there's the chain store organization which wanted to buy real estate and float some bonds to finance the purchases. It was willing to guarantee the bonds and thought it was offering an acceptable proposition. But investment houses refused to touch it, and the company found it would take four months to prepare the information about itself as the guaranteeing company required by the law. So the deal was called off.

"We never thought about this darned Securities Act before, but we'll think and say plenty about it from now on."

AFFILIATES
The inside dope is that security affiliates may get a last minute reprieve from dissolution. It appears they are more useful to government than realized. But they will undoubtedly be limited to handling federal, state and municipal issues—which is the same as putting a hungry man on a diet of lettuce.

REFORM
Stock Exchange authorities are still thinking up ways and means to regulate themselves some more. Member houses may be forced to choose between a regular commission business, serving as specialists or acting as distributors, with no overlapping allowed. Distributors are those which buy up issues or parts of issues and then sell them for their own account.

In the past a customer frequently did not know whether a house was simply acting as his commission agent or unloading stale securities on him from its own shelves.

The motivation of this change would be to give the customer a better break. The exchange has reason to know that if it doesn't, Congress will. . . .

GOLD
The rule permitting the export of gold concentrates is so much thing. So Professor Rogers of the second edition brain trust was sent to New York to reason with the boys. He did his best. But he got the same answer everywhere he went. "There ain't going to be no security issues as long as the present law stands."

Apparently Washington thinks Wall Street is kidding and will yield under pressure. But the "strike" is not intended as a nose-thumbing gesture. Local houses sincerely believe that the risk involved in the act far outweighs any underwriters' profits. "At least the law doesn't say that we have to issue securities."

BRITAIN
Friends of Montagu Norman say he is against Britain's snapping the chain that binds her to the gold countries. Insiders here believe that Britain will steer toward freedom of action in currency matters and development of trade within the empire.

BROADCASTS
Electrical insiders say that plans are set to launch special broadcast programs over ordinary electric light circuits. Power companies are only waiting for a propitious moment to make it commercially profitable.

The new system is planned to give those who want them more highbrow programs than the usual radio stuff. Arrangements with artists and so forth have all been made. Power companies are actually supporting numbers of people in the music field who are simply being held on tap until the hour is ripe.

TREATMENT
New York learns of a new use foradio in London. A doctor there has a woman patient with heart trouble who requires several stethoscope examinations daily. He rings up the patient, and by means of a special microphone placed over her heart and an amplifier he hears the beats over the telephone louder than with a stethoscope.

SIDELIGHTS
Governor Lehman of New York is said to be planning a brain trust of his own. . . . Felix Frankfurter, who wrote the Securities Act, is talked of as a member. . . . An odd angle is that the governor's former firm doesn't think much of Frankfurter's handiwork. . . . Tammany is more afraid of civil wars than of fusion. . . . It has several on its hands already. . . . Wall Street got a big laugh out of Pecora's suggestion for a government board to determine the true value of securities. . . . "We'd like to know how to do that ourselves." . . . It's like trying to beat the bank at Monte Carlo. (Copyright, 1933, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Tuesday's Games
Torrance at Santa Ana; Anaheim at Huntington Beach; Westminster at Whittier; Oilers, bye.

Huntington Beach today was second-half champion of the National Night league—literally and figuratively.

Even the learned mathematicians were satisfied.

The Oilers clinched first place, and the privilege of meeting Torrancia in a seven-game playoff, by blanking Whittier, 5-0, at Huntington Beach last night.

Beach two games ahead of Anaheim, with only one more contest left on its 1933 league schedule.

Thus, the game was finally cleared for the National league's annual series between first and second-half champions. The play-off begins at Huntington Beach next Friday and will continue until one team has won four games.

Huntington Beach fans will celebrate their notable triumph when the Oilers square off against Anaheim Tuesday. It will be "Joe Rodgers Night" at the beach, and the aggressive little skipper of the new champions will be duly honored for his work in bringing Huntington Beach its first pennant.

"Chico" Sabella, Huntington Beach's ace pitcher, stopped Whittier cold in the season's crucial contest. Limiting the Oilers to four hits, he struck out 15 and never was in the slightest danger after the third inning when his mates scored four times on an unexpected Whittier mound selection.

Lower opened with a single, Sabella walked and Osborn singled, filling the bases. Murray forced Lower at home but a wild pitch scored Sabella, and Davis' error on Maness' short fly to center allowed both Osborn and Murray to ring the bell. Maness stopped at third, talled on another wild pitch.

Huntington Beach got its other run in the sixth on Smith's single, Schuchardt's sacrifice, a stolen base and Jertberg's error on Lower's grounder.

Anaheim pounded its former teammate, "Fuzzy" Errington, for 13 hits and an easy 5-1 victory at Westminster.

WETHERELL IN VICTORY OVER JACK CREAMER

Santa Ana will be the tennis capital of Southern California all day tomorrow.

Final matches will be played on the courts at Frances Willard Junior high school in men's singles and doubles, women's singles and mixed doubles—concluding events of Santa Ana's second annual Open tournament. Semi-finals were scheduled today.

The program will get under way at 10 a. m. with Mrs. Mildred Ward of Santa Ana opposing in the women's singles either Catherine Rose, the first-seeded Los Angeles favorite, or Rosamund Lamb of Pomona, who met in the semi-finals today.

Junior boys' singles will be decided at 11, with two of the Southernland's finest 17-year-old players, Lewis Wetherell of Santa Ana and Dave Gillingham of Pasadena, struggling for the championship. Wetherell defeated Gillingham in a three-set match at Long Beach recently, and is slightly favored to win.

Wetherell was at his best yesterday in eliminating the first-seeded favorite, Jack Creamer of Pasadena, 6-3, 6-3. Wetherell's superior net play figured heavily in his victory.

Mixed doubles will be decided at 1 o'clock, with the "main event" following at 2 and 3 when titles will be distributed in men's open singles. Last year this honor went to the nationally ranked Les Stoecken in singles and Steffen and Gene Mako in doubles. All matches are

Elmer Curry Is Finalist At La Jolla

LA JOLLA, Aug. 26.—Dan Crokrey, four-handicap player from the Hacienda Country club, and Elmer Curry, eight-handicap, per from the Santa Ana Country club, will meet here today over the 36-hole route for first honors in La Jolla Country club's first annual invitational junior golf tournament.

Both players played sterling golf Friday to move into today's finals. Crokrey downed Walter Fitch of Coronado, one up, in the semi-finals, while Curry beat Johnny Ingle of San Diego, by the same score. Crokrey and Curry are both 20.

The Curry-Ingle battle was sensational. The match wasn't decided until the last green when Curry bagged a birdie three, canning a 16-foot putt for the birdie.

Crokrey won his match by taking the 16th hole from Fitch and halving the last two with pars. Crokrey turned in the biggest upset of the tournament Friday by beating his fellow clubmate from Whittier, Paul Jones, 3 and 2.

Jones, who won the qualifying medal with a round of 72, one over par, went haywire against Crokrey and couldn't hit his hat. He was over 80 while the winner had a 78.

Crokrey and Curry had to show their best brand of golf in the afternoon to beat their San Diego foe. Fitch was winner of the 1932 San Diego country junior title. Curry bested Don Kennedy of Santa Ana, 2 and 1, in the quarter-finals.

REVEAL HEART ATTACK DURING JACOBS MATCH

By MICHAEL J. FOSTER (I.N.S. Sports Writer)

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 26.—(INS)—Two "cripples" will battle it out for the Women's National tennis championship at Forest Hills this afternoon.

Mrs. Helen Willis Moody, seeking her eighth American singles crown, will enter the fray handicapped by a back injury. The Great Moody insists she's O. K., but she'll be wearing a spinal brace to protect her wandering vertebrae, nevertheless.

An ailing heart will be the handicap taken into the contest by Helen Jacobs, defending titleholder, who meets Queen Helen for the eighth time since 1925 in the titular final, and who is given no more chance of upsetting Helen the first today than she was conceding in her seven previous losing contests with the world's champion.

Corralled by a group of reporters near the press murmur, immediately after her splendid victory over Dorothy Round, Princess Helen refused to admit it was her heart which caused her to faint the day before she lost to Sarah Paley at Seabright, and which came so near finishing her in her long quarter-final match at Forest Hills with Josephine Chickshank.

Brown, a right-hander, was called in from Toronto two years ago. He won five and lost two last season with the Yanks, and this year he won seven and lost five. His release is expected to be followed by the addition of a new pitcher, Brown left Cleveland last night for Hollywood.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(UP)—The New York Yankees announced the release on option of Walter Brown, the biggest pitcher in baseball, to Hollywood of the Pacific Coast league.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 26.—(UP)—Lee Ramage of California scored a seven-round technical knockout over Johnny Rousseau of Canada here last night.

Ramage weighed 180, Rousseau, 179. Rousseau was nearly out in the sixth when a smashing right to the heart floored him for a count of nine. Ramage pursued his advantage in the seventh and had Rousseau all but out on his feet. Referee Frank Scully of Newark then halted the uneven contest.

Senators Need Play Only .500 Baseball

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Joe Cronin's Washington Senators today enjoyed that strategic position in the American league pennant race which permits them to play .500 baseball the rest of the season and still tie the second-place New York Yankees should they win three out of every four of their remaining games.

Washington has won 80 and lost 40, and has 34 games to play. The Senators would wind up with 97 won and 57 lost if they won half of the 34. But the Yanks, who have won 70 and lost 46, must win 27 of their remaining 35 games to have the same average.

The Senators increased their lead to 9 full games yesterday by beating Detroit, 5 to 4, in the final game of their series.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(UP)—One stroke separating them, three players—the veteran MacDonald Smith of Nashville, Tenn., Abe Espinosa of Chicago, and Byron Nelson, a newcomer from Texas, Tex.—were out in front by themselves at the start of the second round of the Western Open golf tournament today.

Of 340 entrants in the first round of 18 holes of play Wednesday, only Smith, Espinosa and Nelson were able to better par.

Smith did it with a 68, two under par for the famous No. 4 course, where Johnny Farrell beat Bobby Jones in the playoff for the National Open title in 1928.

Espinosa did it with a 69 and Nelson did it with a 70 over the No. 1 course.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 26.—(UP)—Eddie Fink, young Long Beach yachtman, was off to a flying start to defend his world championship in the star boat class today as 16 entries prepared to set out again in the second race of the International series here.

Fink captured the inaugural yesterday with comparative ease. Getting away to an early lead, he slightly widened the distance between his competitors and crossed the finish line of the 10-mile triangular course in one hour, 25 minutes.

Finishing second was Edwin Thorne of Great South Bay, N. Y., skipping Milt. Glenn Wabers' San Francisco bay champion and one of the favorites in the local regatta slipped into third place in Three Star Two.

It remained for a girl, 13-year-old Patsy Raskob, to stage the most thrilling race of the day. Rounding the first lap in 15th place, Patsy's steering Ripple, the Chesapeake bay entry, steadily crept up toward the front and finished in sixth place, a few seconds behind "Puck" Dowsett of Hawaii in Chip.

55-FOOT LINES THWART STARS: 'CATS' WIN, 2-0

Santa Ana's night baseball authorities were not sure today whether they did or did not like 55-foot baselines and a 35-foot pitcher's box.

The revolutionary idea was given a trial last night when the Stars and the Green Cats, the city's two major teams, met in civil warfare at the Municipal Bowl, but no true indication was given that the plan actually would encourage real hitting and better fielding.

Certainly, the extended bases and mound did not help Santa Ana's long suffering Stars. They were up to an old trick of losing, and 55-foot lines merely made it that much harder for them to make runs. The "Cats" had trouble, too, but picked up two runs in the second inning for a 2-0 victory. A single to left by Ray Hapes, a shot to center by "Speed" Hankmeier, a hunt by Jerry Heard and a single to center by Emmett Seacord produced the tallies. The runs came off Wilson Seacord, who worked the first four innings.

Tom Denney was the only player to get a bounce-hit, although Heard and Seacord hunted safely. Denney's tap hopped over the pitcher to second base and there was no play made for him. Observers thought it might have been a tip-off that expert bounce-hitters like Denney, Sands, Bell, Jertberg, Clemens and Haseer would still get plenty of baseknocks.

Santa Ana players said they had considerable difficulty readjusting their "sights" to the pitcher. They believed that balls hurled from 38 feet would necessitate a new timing altogether.

A crowd of about 500 turned out for the "noble experiment."

HOOKS and SLIDES by WILLIAM BRAUCHER

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

If he continues in his present form Equipoise will be seen in all the important autumn stakes at Belmont Park and in Maryland.

The Whitney horse seems destined to pass both Zev and Gallant Fox in earnings and to finish the season right at Sun Beau's heels. . . . A special match race with Winooka is a September possibility. . . . At even weights you can have Winooka.

I'll take Ekky . . . even though the Australian wonder did tote 135 pounds over six furlongs in 1:10 plus a fraction. . . . If the race is a mile thing, Winooka will have to grab the Whitney hoss by the tail to keep up.

REGATTA
On the heels of the horse-doping investigation at Chicago comes a phony stepplechase at Saratoga. The events reawaken speculation as to the honesty of racing. How many races are fixed?

The answer is, not many. And the reason is that a horse race is one of the hardest things in the world to fix. There are so many factors, including the notions of the horses themselves, that cause the best-laid plans to go awry.

THEY STAND OUT
One of the evidences that most races are on the level is the fact that a boat race, as an arranged race is called, looks so bad. This was shown startlingly in the chase for "gentlemen riders" at the Spa where several of the jockeys did everything but get off and wrestle with their steeds.

The race I'm talking about stands out as a flagrant example of skulduggery. Cito, the winner, was backed down from even money to 3 to 5 before the heat and so much comeback money came in that Tom Shaw and other handbook operators smelled a rat and refused to take wagers.

Cito started far back, and it was evident that the horse, owned by Mrs. Gladys Whitney was not having one of his best running days. The other jockeys took care of that. The rider of Forbis did everything but take his animal into the grandstand, crowding Dock Light out of the picture. The stewards suspended Edward Ball astride Cardenza, and D. Hutt, rider of Forbis.

NOBODY FOOLED
Rigan McKinney managed to get his mount up by a whipping finish, though at other times during the race Cito's efforts were pathetically slow. Mrs. Whitney remarked after the event that she did not believe there was a horse in the field that could not have beaten her gelding that afternoon.

The stands saw it for what it was—a holdup, and the stewards acted swiftly. That much can be said for Saratoga. They couldn't get away with that sort of a job.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
Joe Cronin is nothing if not a gentleman. . . . He wears white silk pajamas to bed every night. . . . Ty Cobb didn't take up golf until he was past middle age, but the Georgia Peach is now shooting consistently in the 70's. . . . John Ereg, a Czech labeled as the world's largest heavyweight, recently fought in Los Angeles. . . . weighs 260 pounds and stands 6 feet 8 inches high. . . . pooh, pooh, Carnera. . . . "Red" Grange is all signed up to play his eighth season with the Chicago Bears. . . . evidently that pro football doesn't seem to be able to get under the hide of that greatest griddier.

New Oil Sand Reported Found In West Newport Well

THOROUGH TEST SCHEDULED FOR BEACH PROJECT

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 26.—William Rhoads, superintendent of drilling operations at the well being drilled on the bluff west of Newport Beach on the Coast highway, has cored six feet of coarse sand heavily saturated with oil, it was reported today. The strike was made at a depth of 375 feet. The oil is believed much lighter than the oil found at a much shallower depth in the Newport area.

Rhoads stated that he would core deeper into the sand and make a thorough test of it but that he felt confident the area west of Newport Beach would be profitable oil territory with depth.

The Wilshire Oil company which Machris and his brother, George, own control, holds 120 acres in fee adjoining the Rhoads well. Rhoads is operating a lease on 600 acres in that area.

Of the five wells the Standard has laid out, the derrick is up on one, foundations are laid on two more for the derricks and the other three are spotted. Two of the wells are on the Pacific Electric right-of-way and three are on the barley field tract. man feel—well, big, you know. And pretty important to somebody!"

"So you were just having a bit of fun with your wife, so far as Mrs. Selim was concerned?" Dundee asked coldly.

The blood flowed through the thinning blond hair. "We—well, not exactly," he admitted frankly. "You see, I did take a shine to Nita, and if I do say so myself, she liked me a lot. Oh, nothing serious! Just a little flirtation, like most of our crowd have with each other—"

"Mrs. Miles," Dundee interrupted with sudden harshness, "are you sure you did not know that that letter was from Dexter Sprague before you looked for it?"

"Sir, if you are insinuating that my wife carried on a flirtation or—an affair with that Sprague fellow," Tracey began to bluster.

But Dundee's eyes were on Flora Miles, and he saw that her sallow skin had tightened like grayish silk over her thin cheek bones, and that her eyes looked suddenly dead and glassy.

"You fainted, you say, Mrs. Miles," Dundee went on inexorably. "Was it because, by any chance, that this note—and he tapped the sheet which had caused so much trouble—revealed the fact that Nita Selim and Dexter Sprague were sweethearts—or lovers?"

It was a battle between those two now. Both ignored Tracey's red-faced rage.

Flora licked her dry lips. "No—no," she whispered. "No! It was because I was jealous of Tracey and Nita—"

"Yes, and I'd given her cause to be jealous, too!" Tracey forced himself into the conversation. "One night at the Country Club, Flora saw me and Nita stroll off the porch and down onto the grounds, and she had a right to be sore at me when I got back, because I'd cut a dance with her—my own wife!... And it was only this very morning that I made a point of driving—out of my way, too—by this house to see Nita. Not that I meant any harm, but I was being a little silly about her—and she was about me, too! Not that I'd have my wife and babies for any Broadway beauty under the sun—"

"Oh, Tracey! And you weren't going to tell me—!" There was real jealousy now, or just pretense on Flora's part?

"You understand, don't you, Dundee?" Tracey demanded, man to man does! There's been other irises fun on the side—nothing serious, mind you! But of course I didn't tell Flora, every little thing. No man does! There's been other girls—other women—"

"Tracey! Not worse than the other men!" Flora flamed up. "He's such a darling that all the girls pet him, and spoil him—"

Dundee could stand no more of Miles' complacent acceptance of his own rakishness. And certainly a girl like Nita Selim would have been able to bear precious little of it. Dundee's face was set in stone. Miles was another matter—and so was Dexter Sprague!

"You can join me in the living room, if you like," Dundee said shortly, as he wheeled and strode toward the door. Was that quick, passionate kiss between husband and wife being staged for his benefit?

"Pretty near through, boy?" Strawn, who had been silent and bewildered for a long time, asked anxiously, as the two detectives passed into the hall.

"Not quite, I've got to know several things yet," Dundee answered absently.

But in the living room his mind was wholly upon the business in hand.

"I'll keep you all no longer than is absolutely necessary," he began, and again the close-knit group—him, only Dexter Sprague was an alien—grew taut with suspense. "From the playing out of the 'death hand' at bridge," he went on, using the objectionable phrase again very deliberately. "I found that no two of you men arrived together. Mr. Hammond, you were the first to arrive, I believe?"

"It seems that I was!" Clive Hammond answered curtly.

"And yet you did not enter the living room to greet your hostess?"

"I wanted a private word with Polly—Miss Beale—my fiancée," Hammond explained briefly.

"How and when did you arrive?"

"I don't know the exact time. Never thought of looking at my watch," Hammond offered. "I came out in my own roadster. As for how I entered the house, I leaped upon the porch and opened a door of the solarium. I walked across the solarium, saw Polly just finishing with bridge for the afternoon, and beckoned to her. She joined me in the solarium, and we stayed there until Karen screamed—"

"That's all."

"Have you been engaged long, Mr. Hammond—you and Miss Beale?" Dundee asked, as if quite casually.

"Nearly a year—if it's any of your business, Dundee!"

"And just when had you seen Miss Beale last, before late this afternoon?" Dundee asked.

"I refuse to answer," Hammond flared. "That at least is none of your damned business!"

"I believe I can answer my own question, Mr. Hammond," Dundee said very softly.

BOOK REVIEWS

By MARY BURKE KING

America Through Women's Eyes, edited by Mary R. Beard, published by The Macmillan Company.

It is the theme of this book that since societies have been organized with reference to the sexes, the functions of life—its continuance, care, and protection and since all women are engaged in the primordial functions—continuing and protecting life—woman is primordial in the making of culture and the destruction of civilization. "No less dynamic in history than woman as force is woman as conception of herself and her role in the processes of culture and civilization, for ideas are also forces in social evolution. . . . What woman conceives her role to be, if any at all, and how she regards civilization become as important to the continuance and quality of civilization as are her activities in every department of society and economy."

The editor of this book, then, reveals through the writings of women in this country since the founding of the Mayflower what they have conceived their function to be and where their interests have been. There was a period, which passed with the crash of 1929 and the general reevaluation which followed, when women tried to be men, to compete for power in the market place. "Once more (since 1929) bewildered humanity began to ponder on the foundations and primary functions of life, with reference to economy, the family, the community and the nation . . . the time arrived for a reconsideration of women's role in the world, especially as the guardians and disintegrators of the processes necessary for the very existence and perdurance of society."

The foundation which the editor establishes for the material this book contains does not fore-shadow the really thrilling content. Many of these women who have written during our history were excellent writers. And they were inspired by exciting experiences. There is the letter of Deborah to her friend Patience in which, with dramatic style, she tells of her ride through the British lines to carry messages to General Washington. The excitement, to Deborah, was chiefly in the fact, however, that a stay-at-home like herself had really been to Boston, since last she had written to Patience, rather than in the manner and occasion of her going. More of an astounding revelation regarding these early female inhabitants of this country is the account by Dr. Anna Howard Shaw of the pioneering of herself and her family in Michigan. Her father cleared enough space for a cabin on three hundred acres of land in the wilderness of northern Michigan. He and his son erected the walls and roof of the cabin and cut spaces for windows and a door. Then he returned to Connecticut and his wife, an invalid unable to stand alone, her three daughters (Anna was then twelve), her son (eight) and her older son then homesteaded on the place for eighteen months before the father joined them. After two months the older brother had to return east for an operation and was never able to take his place with the family in Michigan again. It is something to read about, that story of the family in northern Michigan trying to realize a man's dream. The father sent them a romanticism from time to time and felt he was doing his duty, especially since he was helping in the abolition and other worthy causes. Later on, after the colonizing and pioneering periods, comes the economic development of the country and the awakening of social consciousness among the women. There the writing has more direct bearing on present conditions and suggests the direction which the interest of serious minded women, women who are "in the stream of consciousness," is taking and will take.

The Arches of the Years by Halliday Sutherland published by William Morrow and Company. "The Arches of the Years" is a book of autobiography in which the author has contrived to have all that is included fascinating and amusing. The author is a Scotch physician who has distinguished himself in his own field. The subject matter of the book is composed of experiences as a boy, spending his summer in the highlands of Scotland, as a student of medicine in Edinburgh and Aberdeen, on holiday in the Shetland islands and Spain, as a young doctor starting his professional career, and during the war, with the army and navy.

From the first page to the last there is not a dull moment. The author has a gift for telling a story. The first episode in the book is an early experience when as a boy of eight, with his father and mother and two sisters he was living for several weeks of the summer in the same house with a Mr. Cox who became violently insane one day. It was an experience not likely to be forgotten by a boy of eight.

Boyhood experiences included a peaching which was evidently no sin in the eyes of the father or the son, on an estate running over with game which the owner of the estate never hunted. He tells of the strange fancies, fairy stories and myths believed in by the people of the highlands and it is here that we discover why a Scotchman will say that a field of corn "is no so bad"; instead of "That's a fine field of corn."

The book is made up of good stories which bear retelling, particularly if one can tell them as well as the doctor, to whom credit is due.

For his reputation and the glorification of his book the author does not trade on the names of the prominent people he has known. There was no necessity. Peng Wee's Harvest by Louise Jordan Miln, published by Frederick A. Stokes.

"Peng Wee's Harvest" I would recommend as a nice book for girls in their teens if it were not for the fact that girls in their teens are reading entirely different stories nowadays and probably wouldn't bother at all with it. So it is a nice book for older people who are satiated with the sort of books that girls in the teens are reading today. It is romantic; has a boarding school sequence. It is a bit cluttered and juvenile but an enthralling story on the theme of racial prejudice.

It is the story of Helen Conway who went to a girls' school where she encountered Peng Wee, a Chinese girl of ancient and honorable family whose presence in the school the ignorant Helen resented. Peng Wee had love in her heart for Helen and although she was repulsed and insulted she contin-

Molinari Begins Hollywood Bowl Series Tomorrow

Bernardino Molinari conducts his first Sunday program of the "symphonies under the stars" on August 27. This program will open at the new Sunday starting time of 8:15 o'clock. Molinari's program will include Pajello's "Ninapaza," the Beethoven Pastoral symphony, and two Wagner numbers, Parsifal prelude and The Meistersinger. The evening's soloist is Genevieve Wiley, young mezzo soprano, who will sing a group of three numbers.

The final week of Bowl programs opens Tuesday, August 29. Molinari will conduct this event, as well as the remaining concerts of the season, and has chosen for Tuesday's program Respighi's Fountains of Rome, two Mascagni numbers, and works of Verdi, Rossini and Ponchielli.

Grace Moore, gifted Metropolitan opera soprano, will be Thursday night's soloist. She will sing the aria "Depuis Le Jour" from Charpentier's "Louise," and a group of three other numbers. Beethoven's Egmont overture, and Symphony No. 5 are listed among the orchestral numbers.

The summer's final ballet will be Francesca Braggiotti's colorful and classic "Tales of Vienna Woods," to the Strauss waltz. Braggiotti is a celebrated eastern dance creator, who is making her Pacific coast debut with this exceptional dance feature, in which she herself will take part. Beethoven's Eroica symphony is listed as one of the high spots of the orchestral program. The "symphonies under the stars" close on Sunday, September 3, with Molinari playing an orchestral group including Respighi's "Pines of Rome," and Margaretta Lohmann appearing as piano soloist.

DEATH

I am waiting for the white winds to come,
White with the long whispering dust
That has withered under hoofs and feet,
White with the mountains that blow their sleep
Into the sea.
I am waiting for the white winds to come,
Lifting their hands as white women clad for the moon;
And soon, ah soon,
Lifting my heart to be ashes and wind.

"I shall be glad to go," she said.
"The days are gray and thin;
The days are like a dark wood
That I must wander in."

"The days are like an old song
I have forgot to sing,
Plucked at the fall of twilight
On a lone haunting string."

"The days are like a chill wind
All folded full of snow,
The days are dumb as frost," she said;
"I shall be glad to go."

BARTHELMESS, EILERS IN BIG AIR THRILLER

Richard Barthelmess zooms into town in his picture "Central Airport" Sunday for a three day engagement at Walker's State theater. This thrilling air story is unusual in that it glorifies the commercial flyers of peace, rather than the birdmen of war, and it is said that "Central Airport" tops anything ever filmed in a picture of this nature in breathtaking flying scenes, romantic love, and unusual story content.

One of the most fascinating love triangles is formed between Dick, who believes a flyer's place is in the sky, not in the home, his younger aviator brother Tom Brown, whose viewpoint is just the opposite, and the girl, Sally Eilers, who wants Dick's love but Tom's security.

Barthelmess plays the role of a commercial pilot who cracks up with a plane filled with passengers. Discredited he resorts to stunting with a traveling air-circus, which provides the colorful story with many intensely gripping scenes. After losing his sweetheart Barthelmess enters free-lance piloting with a savage recklessness, seeking danger in far off places, always to come through unscathed because of his uncanny ability.

In the most supporting stars are Glenda Farrell, Harold Huber, Claire MacDowell, and James Murray.

FAIRBANKS JR., SEEN TUESDAY AT WEST COAST

Somerset Maugham's great story, "The Narrow Corner," recently previewed at the Broadway theater here, will be the regular attraction at the Fox West Coast theater next Tuesday and Wednesday. It was announced by Lester J. Fountain, manager, today.

The picture features Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Patricia Ellis, Ralph Bellamy and Dudley Digges. It is the story of a man who runs away from murder, to find romance on an island where he hides in fear. Then as he progresses in his affair, another charge of murder is hurled at him. The climax comes when he forgets his fear and with the girl of his choice, undertakes a death defying feat to reach safety and a new life.

"CLEAR ALL WIRES" ENDS ENGAGEMENT

"Clear All Wires," Lee Tracy's newest picture closes its Santa Ana engagement at the Broadway theater tonight. It has been playing five days.

Full of action and the usual Tracy wisecracks and action, the story deals with a newspaper correspondent who "covers" a fake uprising in Russia.

Bonita Hume is the girl in the picture and Una Merkel and James Gleason also have important roles.

"Girl In 419" Will Start Thursday

"The Girl in 419," a picture with an all-star cast, is slated to be shown at the Fox West Coast theater next Thursday and Friday, Lester J. Fountain, manager, announced today.

David Manners, Jimmy Dunn, Johnny Hines, Shirley Gray and Gloria Stewart have the leading roles.

The picture, one of action and suspense, is given much praise by leading critics.

BROADWAY GETS KAY FRANCIS IN 'GOLD DIGGERS' BIG PICTURE ON FOR WEEK RUN AT BROADWAY

Gold Diggers of 1933, proclaimed the one big picture of 1933, will show at the Broadway theater for an entire week, starting a week from tomorrow, September 3.

It is the first time the picture has been released to any theater on the coast, aside from Grauman's Chinese theater in Hollywood, where it had its premiere, and the procuring of the film is regarded as a distinct "scoop" for Manager Lester J. Fountain. Scores of Santa Anans, who have gone to Hollywood to see the picture, have demanded to know when it would be shown here, expecting to see it again and the picture is expected to play to more persons even than did "Tug Boat Annie," which broke all records here last week.

NOVEL MUSICAL PICTURE OPENS AT WEST COAST

The musical hit, "Moonlight and Pretzels," which has been playing for some time at the RKO theater in Los Angeles, comes to the Fox West Coast theater today for a three-day engagement.

With a host of well-known stars and a chorus which probably excels any seen in a recent picture, this billing is expected to be one of the highlights of the year.

Leo Corliss, Mary Brian, Roger Pryor, Lillian Miles, Herbert Rawlinson, Jack Denny and his Waldorf-Astoria orchestra are seen in the picture, while the chorus of 50 of New York's most beautiful show girls enhance the beauty and action in the film. Eight new song hits are featured in the film. Short subjects on the same program include a Charlie Chase comedy, "Mr. Bride," a Krazy Kat cartoon and a news reel.

'DUDE BANDIT' ENDS RUN HERE TONIGHT

Those who like rip-roaring action westerns opening in a whirlwind of excitement, and leading up to a startling finale, will find a big kick in "The Dude Bandit," thrilling Hoot Gibson western, which closes tonight at Kesar State theater.

Moving swiftly from a courtroom scene to the state prison, and through a successfully executed jail-break, the story of "The Dude Bandit" follows a freight train into the western country, where its principal characters are Kay Francis and Nils Asther are the principals in "Storm At Daybreak," which will be shown at the Broadway theater for four days starting Sunday, and the cast also features such prominent film names as Walter Huston, Phillips Holmes, Eugene Pallette, C. Henry Gordon, Louise Closser Hale and Jean Parker.

The picture, a torrid romance laid in the Balkans at the outbreak of the World War, is based on the play, "Black Stemmed Cherries," by the brilliant Hungarian playwright, Sandor Hunyady.

Its story of "Storm At Daybreak" opens with the spectacular assassination of the Archduke Ferdinand and his wife in Sarajevo, which precipitated the World War, and then centers on the lives of three persons who become engulfed in the bitter strife between Hungarians and Serbs. Miss Francis plays the wife of a man old enough to be her father; Asther is seen as a Hungarian officer, and Walter Huston plays the husband. Short subjects on the same bill include a new Silly Symphony cartoon, "Just Dogs," a Screen Snapshots, a Pete Smith feature, "Throttle Pushers" and a news reel.

JACK HOLT, FAY WRAY COMING IN MIGHTY DRAMA

An unusually good cast is seen in the screen version of the Joseph Hergeheimer story "Tampico," which will be seen at the Broadway theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this next week.

The picture, called "The Woman I Stole," stars Fay Wray, the girl in "King Kong," Jack Holt, who has the male lead, Noah Beery, Donald Cook and Raquel Torres.

Miss Wray plays the role of an alluring and sophisticated woman of the world, who, not content with the love of her husband, becomes involved in a romantic affair with Holt, an oil magnate.

The picture is crowded with action and fast dialogue and should prove one of the best attractions of the month.

MYSTERIOUS DEATHS IN THRILL FILM COMING TO WALKERS
A maniac at large, mysterious killings, secret panels, and Bela Lugosi slithering down dark hallways are a few of the thrill-providing elements that make up the Columbia drama, "Night of Terror," a story that comes from the pen of the famous Willard Mack.
Sally Blane, George Meeker, Tully Marshall, Matt McHugh and Wallace Ford are seen prominently in an excellent cast. The picture opens a run of two days Wednesday at Walker's State theater.

SANTA ANA, CALIFORNIA SATURDAY, AUGUST 26, 1933

Principals in Wedding
Tonight Will Make
Home in Indiana

Fully as interesting to friends in the Talbert community as to Santa Anans. Is the wedding scheduled for this evening of Miss Deda Gilbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Gilbert, 320 West Eighteenth street, Santa Ana, to the Rev. William Corlett Jr., son of the Rev. William Corlett of Pasadena. The Gilbert family formerly resided at Talbert.

The ceremony is to take place this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Chapel of the Good Shepherd, Pasadena, and the Rev. Mr. Corlett will conduct the service uniting his son and Miss Gilbert. Assisting in the rites will be yet another ministerial member of this interesting family, the Rev. S. Corlett who came from his home in Kansas to take part in his brother's wedding.

Miss Gilbert will wear the traditional white satin and gauzy veil, and carry bride's roses in formal arrangement. Her sister, Miss Alpha Gilbert, will attend her as maid of honor, while Mr. Corlett will be served by his bride's brother, Doyle Gilbert, as best man.

The bride, who attended Fountain Valley school during her elementary school years, and Huntington Beach High school, is a graduate of Pasadena College, Pasadena, where she gave the past two years to completing her musical training. She is accomplished in both instrumental and vocal music.

Mr. Corlett completed his theological training this year at the Pasadena college, as a minister in the Nazarene denomination. He is the fourth minister of the gospel in his immediate family, with a third brother, as pastor of a church in Texas, the three as sons of the Rev. William Corlett.

Co-Hostesses Present
Surprise Party
For Friend

When Miss Betty Barkman called for Miss Alice Hanson yesterday afternoon to attend a matinee she was amazed to find a group of friends awaiting the arrival at the Lars Hanson home at 2468 Riverside drive. Plans were to honor her with a farewell party at which Miss Hanson was joined by Miss Evelyn Marshall in hostess duties. Miss Barkman left yesterday evening with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Barkman, to make their home in Glendale.

Garden flowers of zinnias, asters and dahlias in vivid colors were placed about the home and following the bridge contest baby asters and zinnias centered the card tables for the serving of the two course tea menu.

Dainty prizes were presented Miss Margaret Newton for making high score and Miss Eloise Wright of Fullerton for holding low score.

Sharing in the delightful surprise farewell party besides the honoree, Miss Barkman, and the hostesses, Miss Hanson and Miss Marshall, were Mrs. Fred Austin, Mrs. C. W. Hoyle, Mrs. Lars Hanson and Mrs. G. V. Barkman, and the Misses Rosemary Ashen, Elizabeth Meyer, Margaret Newton, Betty Rowland, Mary Read, Jean Rowland, Mary Jane Sturgeon of Newport Beach, Eloise Wright of Fullerton, and Jean Badley of Glendale.

Home is Made Lovely
With Flowers for Marriage Rites

More than 60 Santa Ana and Southern friends on an extensive invitation list issued by Mr. and Mrs. Horace B. Van Dien for the wedding of their daughter, Miss Louise Van Dien, and Charles Lyle Webber, assembled yesterday afternoon for the 2 o'clock rites conducted in the Van Dien home, 2402 Bonnie Brae, by the Rev. W. J. Hatter, pastor of the Church of the Messiah.

Guests found the home a bower of beauty for the services, with a wealth of flowers from the Tiede gardens and those of other family friends to augment blooms culled from the home garden. In the drawing room, ferns, palms and other greenery were banked in the wide fireplace, while the design above continued the green parterre starred with white pompon dahlias and an edge of pale pink amaryllis lilies to define the mantel. Mrs. Benjamin J. MacMullen planned the entire effect, as she did the snail-like twisted stairway down which Miss Van Dien moved as the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March resounded through the rooms.

For Bride's Entry
Miss Carolyn Haughton was at the piano, and continued to play a muted accompaniment to the nuptial service as read by the Rev. Mr. Hatter. Miss Van Dien, poised and lovely in long flowing gown of white chiffon worn with a tiny hat of chiffon folds, from which swayed a brief veil, was met at the foot of the stair by her father, on whose arm she passed through the wide archway to the altar. Her great cluster of gardenias and roses, in formal arrangement, had its silken tulle ribbons ending in a shower of tiny rosebuds, suggesting the delicate colors that distinguished the entire wedding setting.

Miss Lucille Harrison, maid of honor, was gowned in white satin crepe and carried a graceful arrangement of garden flowers in varying tones of pink. Mr. Webber, waiting at the altar for his bride, was attended by Overton Lohr of Orange as best man.

After the young people had repeated their vows, they turned to receive the felicitations of the guests, joined in the receiving line by Mr. and Mrs. Van Dien and Benton Van Dien, parents and brother of the bride, and by Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Webber, parents of the bridegroom. Mrs. Van Dien wore golden brown lace with a striking corsage of tuberous begonias in rust tones, while Mrs. Webber, in brown crepe, wore a formal corsage of pompon dahlias in autumn shades.

In Reception Hour
In the dining room, where the new Mrs. Webber cut the first slice of her bride cake, Mrs. MacMullen and Mrs. Bruce Monroe presided, and the group of friends assisting in serving comprised Mrs. R. G. Tinning, Miss Lucille Hutton and Miss Ruth Dane, college friends of the bride. Dining room appointments showed a lovely arrangement of pastel flowers, and the tiered bride cake with its orange blossom design and tiny bridal pair, was needed in snowy sweet peas. It was served with Neapolitan ice cream and rich fruit cake, baked by Mrs. Van Dien in accordance with a family tradition which her own mother had observed when Mr. and Mrs. Van Dien were wedded.

Departing yesterday evening by automobile, the young couple will visit Chicago and the exposition before returning to Santa Ana to make their home. The new Mrs. Webber chose for traveling a modish ensemble in deep blue triple sheer crepe with white hairline and a dash of geranium red in its trimming. Hat, gloves and purse were in the same shade of blue.

Many Guests
Relatives and close friends to whom invitations were sent included Messrs. and Mesdames Stephen Callaghan and son, Richard Callaghan; Wilbur Perry, Howard Callaghan, Harry B. McGown, C. H. MISS BETTY GEORGE
MRS. R. W. BARR

GEORGE CARL ANDERSON
RALPH ADAMS

MISS BETTY GEORGE
Laying aside her duties as a teacher of drama in Los Angeles, Miss Betty George, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. George of East Palmyra avenue, Orange, will sail Thursday, August 31 on the S. S. Helyo Maru, for Valparaiso, South America, in company with her sister, Mrs. R. W. Barr. Miss George is a graduate of Orange Union High school, later continuing her studies in dramatic expression both at the Cumstock school and the Eagan Dramatic school, Los Angeles. She will remain for an extended visit with Mr. and Mrs. Barr.

MRS. R. W. BARR
Completing a spring and summer visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George in Orange, Mrs. R. W. Barr will sail next week, accompanied by her sister, Miss George, to rejoin Mr. Barr in their South American home in Valparaiso. With her will be her two children, Master Jack George Barr, six years old, and the tiny daughter, Betty Ann Barr, born in St. Joseph's hospital on May 16. Mrs. Barr was formerly Miss Arlene Margaret George. Her husband is an electrical engineer with the Braden corporation in Valparaiso.

MRS. GEORGE CARL ANDERSON
It seems very appropriate that Mrs. George Carl Anderson should appear to Register readers in the unassuming uniform of her nurse's calling, for even her romance and the quiet wedding of Thursday, August 24 in San Bernardino, were not permitted to interfere with her offices as a member of the Orange County hospital staff. Mrs. Anderson was Miss Margaret Barnum Bondley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Bondley of Santa Ana. Her profession will work in perfectly with that of her bridegroom, who is a medical student at University of Southern California.

MRS. RALPH ADAMS
Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Adams are anticipating their early return from a San Francisco honeymoon to establish a home in this city. Prior to their marriage in Wilmington on Sunday evening, August 20, Mrs. Adams was Miss Mary Lynn Wade, daughter of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Wade of South Van Ness avenue. Graduating from Santa Ana high school, she became identified with one of the local theaters, serving as cashier. It was there that her romance began, for Mr. Adams is a projectionist at the theater. Their wedding took place in the home of the officiating minister, the Rev. Charles H. Swift, pastor of Wilmington First Christian church, and a life long friend of the bride's family.

Afternoon Motor Ride
Resolves Itself
Into Party

A seemingly quite purposeless afternoon drive which Mrs. Fred Dawson was enjoying Thursday in company with Mrs. T. R. Overton, led to quite delightful things for Mrs. Dawson when she agreed with her friend's suggestion that they drop in to see Mrs. B. Lloyd Folger, 705 W. Washington avenue, in regard to some Eastern Star matter.

No sooner were they within the Folger home, than a group of close friends, bidden by Mrs. Folger in compliment to Mrs. Dawson, made an unexpected appearance, and that young matron was speedily made aware that most delightful plans were afoot in her honor.

Shortly the guests were directed to the garden, where vivid beach umbrellas and shady trees offered eloquent invitation to the swings and garden chairs awaiting occupancy. A clever contest was introduced, and when it was ended, Mrs. Folger awarded a prize to Mrs. A. E. Wallace, scoring high.

This was the signal for the chief feature of the afternoon, a shower of tissue wrapped packages all reposing in a clever papier mache bassinet. Mrs. Dawson opened her gifts to find the daintiest of layette articles selected by her friends. In addition was a beautiful little bassinet for actual use in some happy future day.

Guests remained in the garden to enjoy iced tea and wafer served by the hostess on attractively appointed trays. Those who participated in the delightful shower besides Mrs. Dawson, the honoree, and her hostess, Mrs. Folger, were Mesdames Al Adrian, B. E. Dawson, William J. Dean, Harvey Dimmitt, Lou Dawson, Larry Golden, Max Gowdy, Joe Hersher, T. S. Hunter, Hazel Irvin, Jesse Jennings, Roland Kloss, Glenn Lyman, Nye Martin, Thomas Overton, Douglas Shippe, Elmer Smith, Ray Spauld, Augusta Whisenand, Walter Wright, W. H. Wyckoff and the Misses Bobbie and Ruth Campbell of Los Angeles.

Close Friends Invited To Enjoy Party in Crawford Home

When Mrs. Jennie Crawford entertained Thursday afternoon in her home at 429 South Ross street, it was not only as a housewarming but also to greet friends of long standing, as she returned only three weeks ago from Claremont where she has been residing the past year. This date also held special significance for Mrs. Crawford as it was fifty years ago that she and the late Mr. Crawford plighted their troth.

Pretty summer flowers in all shades of yellow brightened the home and were used on the three tables at the refreshment hour. Punch was served with delicious old fashioned marble cake. Mrs. Crawford was assisted at this time by her daughter, Mrs. Charles G. Nalle, her niece, Mrs. Vinita Miller of Huntington Park, and Mrs. Rolla Hays.

Of the various pursuits of the afternoon, one of the merriest was the making of travel scrap books, for which a store of magazines yielded illustrations, and in which Miss Lulu Minter was victorious. Miss Gertrude Minor was another prize winner who spelled down all her opponents in a spelling match. After these and other features, each guest wrote down her favorite recipe for Mrs. Crawford.

Those taking part in this gay housewarming in addition to Mrs. Nalle, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Hays and the hostess, Mrs. Crawford, were Miss Gertrude Minor, Miss Lulu Minter, Mesdames Minnie Holmes, Eva Halliday, Warren Brakeman, Otto S. Russell, George Stevens, W. L. Taylor, H. M. Culter, David Craighead, R. E. Coulter, W. H. Harrison, Mac O. Robbins, Archie Robinson, B. B. Kellogg, John Harrison and Jessie White.

Family Returns After
9000 Miles Travel
By Automobile

Arriving at their Santa Ana home, 1059 West Fifth street, on Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Drake and their daughter, Miss Helen Drake, had completed a two months' automobile tour which took them on an unusually interesting transcontinental trip, with a comprehensive survey of both northern and southern states as well.

Hoover Dam and Las Vegas provided the first objective for the Santa Anans when they left two months ago, after which they toured Zion National park, finding it somewhat similar in its rugged beauty, to the Yosemite except for the difference in atmospheric coloring. Salt Lake City and its environs and Yellowstone National park followed in due course, and then the travelers proceeded to Buffalo, Wis., where they visited Mrs. Drake's brother, Rap Hupp, formerly of Santa Ana.

A round of short visits with cousins in Nebraska and with Mrs. Drake's sisters, Mrs. Herman Ross and Mrs. Ora Cripe near Indianapolis, Ind., proved interesting and then came Chicago and five days at the exposition before seeking the highway. Mr. Drake's relatives both in Pennsylvania and New York were visited before the three went on to Washington, D. C., to see the capital.

Beautiful Shenandoah Valley, Tennessee and other southern states offered their beauties as the leisurely homeward trip was made, with stops at such spots as fancy dictated. In all their travels, they experienced only a few days of excessive heat, so felt that they had been fortunate indeed. Roads were excellent throughout the 9000 miles traveled, and both Mr. and Mrs. Drake compared the trip with one taken 18 years ago when they had encountered every sort of poor road and highway difficulties.

Informal Dinner Party
Is Compliment to Student Nurse

Among pleasant courtesies extended Miss Muriel Kuhl during her vacation visit here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Kuhl of Garfield street, the most recent was the dinner given Thursday evening by Mrs. Nannie Mayers of 719 Lyon street.

Zinnias and dahlias lent their beautiful autumnal colors to decorations of the home, and the zinnias were especially lovely as a table centerpiece when guests were invited to the dining room. Mrs. Mayers had prepared a delicious chicken dinner which was enjoyed by her honoree, Miss Kuhl, the latter's parents and sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Kuhl and Miss Margaret Kuhl, Mrs. George Ray, Mrs. Flora Hoyt, Mrs. Ida Carey, Mrs. Helena Bunker and Jack Cook.

After dinner hours were given over to informal playing of 500 and cribbage around tables placed amidst the flowers of the living room.

Miss Kuhl will return the first of September to San Francisco and her final year of nurse's training at the St. Frances hospital. She will complete the course in June and will take three months of special obstetrical work followed by another three months at Stanford.

Santa Ana Native Son
Wins Charming Bride
In Glendale

Shortly after September first, Santa Ana friends will be prepared to welcome the return to this city of a native son, Ronald E. Buell, D. D. S., and his lovely young bride, the former Miss Grace Margaret Hansen of Glendale, who are now absent on a honeymoon trip following their wedding on Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hamilton, 907 Lowell street, parents of the bridegroom, and many other Santa Ana relatives and friends were among guests at the wedding rites, which were held in Glendale Seventh Day Adventist church, with the Rev. J. C. Stevens, pastor of the church, officiating. A musical program preceding the ceremony featured a cello solo by Mrs. Marcia Francis of Eagle Rock, accompanied by Miss Mildred Brockway, and two vocal solos, "For You Alone" and "Call Me Thine Own," by J. A. J. Metcalfe of Glendale.

Anna Ray Grant, at the pipe organ, then played the "Prelude" to Lohengrin for the entry of the bride party, and at the moment the bride entered the church, Vera Hoopes Watts, pianist, and Audrey Hall, violinist, joined with the organist, playing Lohengrin's "Wedding March" as a trio number.

Miss Hansen wore ivory bridal satin with Venetian point lace and seed pearls. The gown was in princess mode, with sweeping train and long sleeves, and gleamed through the filmy folds of an embroidered veil caught capwise to her hair with orange blossom and pearls. Her formal bouquet of gardenias was showered with lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Mildred Hansen Dawson of Chicago served her sister as honor matron, wearing jade green brocade satin and carrying roses. Completing the bride's attendants were her two cousins, Dr. Dorothy Prince and Miss Virginia Williams of Los Angeles and Dr. Buell's sister, Eunice Buell Brewster of Fullerton. Their tulle gowns were identical in fashion, with close-fitting bodices of point d'esprit, but different in color, one in pastel blue, one in daffodil yellow and one in coral. Each carried an arm cluster of blossoms to harmonize with her costume. Little Miss Jacqueline Watts was a dainty flower girl in ruffled rock of orchid taffeta, scattering rose petals from her enameled basket.

Dr. Buell was attended by his brother, Orville W. Buell of Hollywood, as best man, while acting as ushers were his brother and brother-in-law, Lester L. Buell of this city, and Bryan W. Brewster of Fullerton, and his bride's brother-in-law, Herbert M. Dawson of Chicago, and cousins, Clinton U. Stribben and Colby W. Dunscombe.

Following the wedding rites was a reception for over 100 guests, held in the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse of Glendale. A brief musical program included Schumann's "Sonata in G Minor," played by Mrs. Dawson, and Schubert's "Serenade," sung as a baritone solo by R. M. Watts. Mrs. Dawson served as master of ceremonies. Congratulations to the happy young people and the serving of appropriate refreshments were features.

At the wedding and its subsequent reception, Mrs. Hansen, mother of the bride, wore turquoise blue crepe; Mrs. Hamilton, mother of the groom, chose deep blue chiffon; Mrs. Carrie Hansen of Glendale, grandmother of the bride, was in lavender crepe, and Mrs. Morgan of this city, Dr. Buell's grandmother, was in soft black silk.

Miscellaneous Showers
Enlive Week for Bride-elect

The week now drawing to a close has been enlivened by two unusually delightful parties complementing Miss Morilla McIntee of Newport, soon to become the bride of Wayne W. Hofer, young Orange electrician.

Miss McIntee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McIntee of Newport, is a popular member of Santa Ana's Foursquare Gospel church, where her lovely soprano voice makes her prominent in the church musical programs. With her sisters, the Misses Irene, Violet and Vera McIntee, she completes a women's quartet which takes part in church services.

In recognition of her value to the organization, 100 or more church members motored to Newport Thursday, ostensibly for a beach supper, but in reality to shower Miss McIntee with bridal gifts. She had the exciting experience of opening literally dozens of pretty packages and claiming for use in her future home an array of table linens, silver, china and crystal, several beautiful hand-made quilts and everything that a happy bride could wish.

After all the gifts had been admired, the party moved to the beach, where wedding were toasted around a big bonfire and enjoyed with an array of picnic dishes, including a dessert course for which the young bride-elect had herself baked four luscious cakes.

Earlier Party
Earlier in the week the Roy Waser home on Buero Road had been rendezvous for some 60 young people of the Foursquare church, gathered to show their interest in the engagement of Miss McIntee and Mr. Hofer. Games, a musical program and refreshments were varied features of a pleasant evening that was climaxed with a miscellaneous shower for the honoree.

Both Miss McIntee and her fiance are extremely musical, the latter being a saxophone soloist. His parents and other members of his family play a variety of musical instruments, so have an informal orchestra right in their own home circle.

The marriage of the young people is expected as an event of the very early autumn.

Daughters Conspire in Birthday Surprise For Mother

Mrs. Hannah Huntington Little thought that the event of her 58th birthday anniversary, on Thursday, August 24, would be an occasion for a delightful surprise party in her honor. For so well she had five daughters and her daughter-in-law conceal their plans that it was not until Mrs. Huntington stopped at the home of her daughter, Mrs. L. W. Slaback, 418 West Pine street, that she realized her friends were gathering there in her honor.

The sisters who joined in her birthday party were: Mrs. Helen Tedford of Orange; Mrs. Katherine Jackson, Fullerton; Mrs. Raymond Ross, Mrs. Walter Gerkin, Mrs. Carl Huntington of China, and Mrs. Slaback, in whose home this event was held. Several large baskets of lovely Japanese loaves graced the home.

Informally reigned as more than to friends greeted Mrs. Huntington and presented her with an array of pretty gifts, flowers and a bouquet of plants. At intervals in the afternoon Miss Lela Slaback and Stanley Slaback of the home played piano numbers, and two groups of pictures were taken of the guests.

Punch and wafers were served throughout the afternoon by the hostesses, assisted by Miss Dora Tedford, a granddaughter of the honoree, and Miss Neva Roderick.

Mrs. Huntington has been a resident of Santa Ana for nearly 50 years, and is now living at 775 South Main street. She is an active member of Sedgwick Women's Relief Corps and of the Twenty-five-Year Service club.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Story of Saul

Text: 1 Sam. 15:13-26

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Aug. 27.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist

In the study of Saul, first king of Israel, we approach one of the most interesting and tragic of all figures in history. It is a study in which a great artist in line, color, or words might revel, for it is full of intensity, and it is full of contrast.

It is regrettable that that portion chosen for our lesson ignores much of the deeper and more vital moral collapse of Saul to emphasize an incident that brings us into the doubtful business of slaughter and destruction. However, as we have pointed out in connection with Samuel, the age was rough and cruel, and in sparing the sheep and the oxen captured in defeat of his enemies Saul was not moved by the great principle of mercy, and it is doubtful whether his professed motive of religious sacrifice was either honest or genuine.

Samuel had the relentlessness of a man supremely devoted to a cause. He had hacked Agag, king of the Amalekites, in pieces before the altar of the Lord, and it was natural that such a man should rebuke Saul for what Samuel deemed his weakness and his lack of honesty of purpose.

In some respects the lesson as it stands creates a difficulty as well as serving a useful purpose. We must not be too ready to associate the name of God and the altar of the Lord with acts of slaughter and vengeance, and we should not read such a lesson as this without bearing in mind the teaching of the New Testament, and of Jesus who enjoined men to love their enemies.

But the lesson may be a point of departure for a study in the life of a man whose career illustrates the fatal weaknesses and passions that may bring a man down to ruin in spite of his high calling and his favorable environment. The calling of Saul was high. He was summoned to be king in Israel when to be king meant a task of real responsibility and service. The task was not of his own choosing; in fact we see him as a man of great physique and commanding presence, modest and shrinking from honor. When the lot had fallen upon him and he was chosen to be king, they could not find him because he had hidden himself among the baggage, but when they brought him forth his great presence moved the people, and with one accord they shouted, "God save the king."

It is true that there were sons of Belial who muttered and murmured against him, but Saul showed good judgment in holding his peace, and when he went home to Gibeah, after being chosen as king, the record is that "there went with him a band of men whose hearts God had touched."

No man ever entered upon a kingdom with a more favorable opportunity. Yet we see him in the closing scene of his career a suicide on the battle field, in defeat and falling upon his own sword. What lies between these two scenes, the one of his modesty and the other the wreck and ruin of his life? It is a story of inner strife, of the demon of jealousy coming into the soul of a generous man and nurtured there until it became the instrument of his downfall.

The kindest thought of Saul is that he had periods of madness when he was only partially responsible for his deeds, but this madness itself apparently came on through his failure to thrust out from his mind the seeds of jealousy when he found the youthful David, fresh from his triumph over Goliath, being acclaimed in his stead. He could not get over the singing of the women. "Saul has slain his thousands, but David his tens of thousands."

The time to conquer disrupting and destroying passions is in the moment of their entrance into the soul, and the method of conquering them is to keep the soul so full to overflowing with noble purpose that there can be no place for baser thoughts. This is the supreme lesson that comes to us from the life of Saul.

MINUTE STORIES from the BIBLE

Copyright, 1933, by Grosset & Dunlap—Released by V-P Service

As they had been commanded by the voice of God in the Burning Bush, Moses and Aaron went before Pharaoh to plead with him to release the Children of Israel from bondage, and to let them worship their own God in the wilderness.

But Pharaoh was as crafty as he was cruel, and wished to keep these slaves who did all his work. "Back to your tasks," was his reply. And he even ordered his taskmasters to increase the burdens of their slaves, by compelling them to make bricks without supplying the straw. They had to scatter through the fields to gather stubble for straw, and yet if they fell behind in their quota of bricks, they were cruelly punished.

Harder than ever was their lot, and Moses wept to see their suffering. But Jehovah spoke again to Moses and promised that Pharaoh would be punished if he refused to let the Israelites go.

"Go to the Nile," he commanded, "and strike the waters with your rod. They will be turned into blood, the fish will die, and there will be no water for the Egyptians to drink."

The next morning Moses did as he had been told, and the waters of the Nile were turned to blood. Then Pharaoh promised to let the Israelites go. But as soon as the Nile had again been purified, he once more grew stubborn and refused to keep his word.

And so ended the first of the ten plagues of Egypt.

The story of the First Plague of Egypt is from the Old Testament—Exodus—Chapter V to VII.

The bullhead seemed to want to play. He swam 'round in a funny way and dragged the treasure chest along. "Hey, stop it!" Shrimpy cried.

"Against a rock you'll smash that chest. You'll stop, now, if you know what's best." And then the big fish dropped the chest right down by Shrimpy's side.

"Ah, good old fellow," Scouty said. "That time I think you used your head. And say, we want to thank you for the fine job you have done."

Then Doty stroked the fish a bit. The bullhead nearly had a fit. He wiggled 'round so much that Goldy cried, "He's full of fun."

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

No good-looking girl is satisfied with reflected glory.

"Come, come," said Duncy, "all of you. Right now there is much work to do. I'll grab the great big hook the diver dropped into the sea."

"We'll fasten it right to the chest. The diver, then, can do the rest. When he pulls up his treasure, think how happy he will be."

"Now, wait! We want things to work right. We'd best be sure the rope is tight," said Scouty. "If the rope lets go, the monstrous chest will drop."

"It's safer to have many knots. Come on, we'll all tie lots and lots. Gee, as for me, I do not want this job to be a flop."

"A great idea," Windy cried. "I'll show you how real knots are tied." And shortly, all the Tynmites were working hard and fast.

At last of Shrimpy said, "Oh, my, I do not think we need to tie any more. The way it's knotted now, it's sure to last."

"Now for the big hook! Gee, lads, I hope that we can slip it through the rope," cried Duncy. Then, their first attempt brought forth a merry shout.

"Well, we have done all that we can. Now, signal to the driver man," said Shrimpy, "and, if he is strong, he'll pull the old chest out."

(Duncy takes a ride on the chest in the next story.)

EXTENDED BRIDGE TOURNAMENT ENTRY CLOSING DATE

Because many bridge players intend to enter KREG's Amateur Bridge Tournament, but are undecided about their partners, studio officials have extended the closing date of entries. Arrangements have been made to accommodate any players who wish to enter as late as 8 o'clock of the evening of play at each location.

In Santa Ana play will start at 8 p. m. Tuesday at the Santa Ana Country Club; in Fullerton at 8 p. m. Wednesday at the California Hotel; and in Laguna Beach at 8:30 p. m. Thursday at the Community Playhouse.

Judging from the entries received from Laguna Beach, tournament directors are sure that the well known art center is also a contract bridge center. At their latest evening held last Wednesday, enthusiastic players met and played excellent bridge in pleasant social surroundings.

All eyes in Laguna are on Ralph Frost, Vern Rush and Arthur Dupeau, all excellent players and each capable of being on a winning team. Judge Rols has the reputation of being an unyielding defense player and that, according to George Parham, a tournament director, is more than 60 per cent of the game.

Among the other entries from Laguna Beach, KREG reports the following: Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice McMillan, Mr. Hugo Lindberg, Mr. Allan, Mr. Hugo Lindberg, Mrs. Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Helm and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Andrews. Many others are expected to enter soon, according to station officials.

"NEW TESTAMENT" SERMON SUBJECT

Rev. F. E. Lindgren, pastor of the Calvary church of Santa Ana, announces the subject of his morning service will be "The New Testament—Is It the Inspired Word of God?" In the evening Rev. Lindgren will talk on "Christ, Received or Rejected?" The morning service starts at 11:00 a. m. and the evening service at 7:30 p. m. Both services are broadcast by direct wire over KREG.

CHANDU WILL GIVE MAGIC BAR TRICK

If you are planning on a drive tomorrow, and want to do something that will please the kiddies, be sure and tune in on Chandu, the Magician, this evening at 6:45. The Rio Grande Company has arranged special efforts to procure additional magic bar tricks, and during this evening's performance they will tell you just how you can get your child a set.

Chandu, the Magician is broadcast from KREG each night except Monday and Sunday at 6:45 and at 12 noon.

PROPOSES OF NRA RADIO TALK TOPIC

At 7:30 this evening KREG will present a talk explaining the scope and purposes of the great NRA drive, which has aroused the patriotic enthusiasm of the American people.

This talk was sent direct to KREG from the national headquarters of The National Recovery Administration.

KREG NOTES

Read inside sports information will be handed out by Mark Kelly tonight at 6:15. If what goes on behind the scenes in the sport world interests you, we advise dialing this station at that time.

The Texas Ramblers are packing the studio each evening between 8:00 and 8:30. They are a nightly feature except Mondays. Studio officials are very sorry that they ran out of chairs last evening, although the crowd didn't seem to mind, they sat on the floor and enjoyed the show.

We advise all the children who would like to join the Funny Paper Man's club to tune in on Gus Mack tomorrow at 10:30 instead of 12:15. This change is only for the one day, and next Sunday you will hear Gus Mack at his usual time of 12:15. The change was made necessary to permit one of the station operators time to attend a wedding.

No not his own, both the regular station operators are already married.

At 7:10 this evening there will be some late minute announcements regarding the KREG Bridge Tournament; all bridge players tune in.

PRICES WILL NOT RECEDE

There is considerable speculation and discussion concerning the advanced prices of nearly everything we are now buying. We cautioned against this several weeks ago, for we saw what the tendency would be.

While this necessity is a matter for regret, at the same time we would like to call the attention of our readers to a few facts concerning it. One of these is that manufacturers have made increases to wholesalers and jobbers, and jobbers, in turn, have made increases down the line.

The second suggestion we would make is that prices are not likely to recede. They are more likely to advance. Without serious question, there will be some definite form of inflation prior to October 1st, and when that comes, prices are almost certain to soar on all forms of property. In other words, it is wise to purchase now, in any case.

To be sure, increases seem large in some cases, but we should not forget that prices of all sorts of commodities have been extremely low for many months, so that raising back to anything like normalcy seems very heavy. The question of income, in a way, is a great deal more important than the purchasing price. And if what we are paying for what we buy, is reflected in larger numbers employed and a greater amount to the consuming army, it will finally return to us in what we have to sell, whether it be produce or labor. We must not forget that.

We would remind our readers also that a legitimate increase is necessary, in order to cover the added expenses, to which people are placed, by operating under the provisions of the NRA. On the other hand, there should be constant effort on all of our parts to not take advantage of this to raise any higher than is absolutely necessary.

Incidentally, we have had occasion to compare the prices of a considerable amount of merchandise sold today with the prices of a year ago, and also had placed before us the cost price to the merchant at this time of the same goods. We believe we can say, with the full knowledge that the facts will fully vindicate us, that at the present prices of most things, the merchant cannot replace his stock with the prices received for it, when you take into consideration the necessary cost of doing business, which must be added, of course, to the wholesale price of the goods.

Strangely enough, the government's penalties for gold-hoarding don't seem to be deterring the gold-diggers one bit.

INSULL'S FREEDOM NEAR END

It would appear, from the dispatches, that Samuel Insull is nearing the end of his freedom. After pyramiding corporations and securities up to the highest pitch ever known in this country, according to the charges against him, he transferred securities after he saw bankruptcy was inevitable, "got out from under" and fled the country.

He has successfully evaded extradition until now. Federal authorities believe he can do it no longer, and they will have him back for trial in Chicago. His trial and punishment, of course, will not return any of the money taken from the pockets of the unfortunate people. It simply will be a lesson to others who may be tempted to do similar acts in the future.

And, incidentally, if he returns, he returns to a country where there have been so many similar things exposed in the lives of big financial men in New York, Michigan and elsewhere, that at least the surprise and indignation of the people generally is so distributed, that it will not be concentrated, as it might have been, on Samuel Insull alone.

While it is well that the avenging angel of justice shall pursue the case to the end, it should be borne in mind that the value, after all, to the country, is to so address ourselves to the protecting forces that such practices can never again be carried on. We should remember that during this very period, there were those who were pointing out what was being done in Chicago and in Illinois. But in the days of prosperity, when everybody was "making theirs," the voice of those who saw the illegitimate practices, and was endeavoring to get official action to prevent them, was unheeded. We should have a listening ear for the future.

King George is reported to have lost weight during his recent illness. Another case of the declining British pound?

NOW YOU TELL ONE

Miss Amelia Earhart founded a new club known as the Monday Afternoon Exaggerated Narratives Club. Baron Munchausen should be a charter member. The club started in this way. Miss Earhart, at an interview with reporters told how a Ludington Airways plane, en route to Washington, ran into a flock of pigeons. The pilot went through safely and when he got to Washington found a pigeon alive and contentedly sitting between the cylinder heads. In order to get there it must have passed through the propeller blades which were revolving at the rate of 1,500 revolutions a minute.

Having told the story she suggested that the reporters tell some stories. One reporter told of a cow carried safely into the next county by a Kansas tornado. Another told of a rooster which had been blown, by a tornado, safely through the neck of a five-gallon corn whiskey jug.

Since this is a club everyone can get busy gathering together his or her qualifications. Miss Earhart has started something now. We can't all fly but we can all tell stories.

HARD LINES!

A delicate and romantic custom has been made a feat for amazons by a simple gesture of the California legislature. The co-eds find that a sixty-day jail sentence impinges upon the wearing of their "boy friends'" fraternity pins. The state legislature, so the Daily Californian informed the young women, at its last session passed a law providing two months' imprisonment for anyone wearing a fraternity or lodge emblem not his—or her—own.

"Any girl will gladly go to jail for sixty days if she can keep the pin when she gets out," said one of the girls. But a sixty-day jail sentence won't entitle you to wear the pin, girlie, that isn't the purpose of the sentence any more than a prison sentence for theft would afterward entitle a man to rob, though some seem to think so.

Our sympathy is with the girls, though. It is too bad someone wasn't looking after their interests in the legislature. With the enforcement of this law so much joy will go out of their lives. But there are some of the brothers who deplore the custom and will be relieved if the girls can't sport their treasured insignia as so many conquests over the weakness of some man.

Hollywood story says no sooner do newly-married movie stars begin to get really acquainted with each other than they want a divorce. Probably that explains it.

INTOLERABLE FIGURES

An investigating committee, known as the National Council of '76, which aims to awaken the American people to the dreadful toll and cost of crime in this country states that every year on an average 12,000 persons are murdered in the United States; 3,000 are kidnapped, 100,000 assaulted and 50,000 robbed. Furthermore each year sees 40,000 homes and other places burglarized and more than $100,000,000 lost through incendiary fires.

If figures alone would arouse people these figures should do it. They are intolerable. Unfortunately it sometimes seems that before human nature is greatly moved a situation must come very close personally. Must it reach a point where every family has itself suffered from the criminal element before there is adequate response to the educational campaign which will bring about a betterment of conditions? It has almost reached that point now.

Col. James A. Moss who is directing the National Council which has brought forth these figures, says, "It is distinctly a problem of education. No law can be effective without public opinion behind it. The center of the problem lies in the alliance of corrupt judges, crooked politicians and grafting police officers. We must crystallize public opinion to drive them out of office."

Give a Rattler No Chance

San Francisco Chronicle

This is the season for the Hopi snake dance at the pueblos in the Painted Desert and likewise the season for accounts telling how the priests handle the rattlesnakes "oblivious to the striking fangs."

As a matter of fact the Hopi snake priests are keenly alive to the danger of the deadly fangs. Expert in seizing and holding the reptiles they never give the rattlers a chance to strike. The contrary impression has arisen because of the indifference of the priests in handling the bullsnakes and gopher snakes also used in the dance—a snake is a snake for the purposes of this ceremony. The harmless serpents are picked up and held any old way, but a rattler never.

Some people think the Hopis have a surefire specific for rattlesnake poison, but Dr. Walter Fewkes of the Smithsonian, who years ago was made a member of the snake priests' fraternity, could find no trace of one. The priests' remedy is preventive—to give a rattler no chance. That is the best prescription for everyone.

Bootblack Kings

New York Times

The will of a local "bootblack king" disposes of an estate of more than $150,000 amassed in the course of forty years. It is an impressive showing, but far from a record in the history of European immigrants and American opportunity. In lines of business more conspicuous than shoe-shining, many poor boys from the other side of the Atlantic have risen to larger fortunes and more commanding positions.

Why are people surprised that a bootblack should attain wealth? One of the commonplaces of economic experience is that some of the greatest fortunes have been accumulated out of the smallest and commonest articles and services, like pins and soap and five and ten cent stores. We take it as a matter of course that the manufacturer of shoe laces shall be a rich man. It may be so with the dispenser of shoe laces, if he sells enough of them.

Snubbing Russia

The San Diego Union

Uncle Sam in his relations with Soviet Russia, is beginning to resemble the lady who hurriedly crossed a busy street because she saw somebody over there she wanted to ignore. Upon two counts—reputation of the czarist and White Russian debts and Soviet promotion of radical propaganda abroad—Uncle Sam has been ignoring Russia for 15 years. As time goes on, however, this policy costs more and more American effort. The latest estimate of the cost, promulgated by the Hon. Smith W. Brookhart of the department of agriculture, is that the effort cost American business a trade loss of about $200,000,000 a year.

That sum ought to render it worth while for Uncle Sam at least to examine his attitude in the light of reason.

More Truth Than Poetry

A CRY OF DISTRESS

I'm afraid of these gifted go-getters,
I'm afraid of the high pressure guys;
I am held, like a felon in fetters,
By their uncanny art they impel me
Their smooth flowing sales talk to heed,
For I know they will probably sell me
Many things that I never shall need.

I try to be firm and insistent;
I am frequently surly and gruff;
I try to be sales-talk resistant,
But I never try quite hard enough.
There are few things I need very badly,
For my wants are but simple and small.
But these lads set me hungering madly
For things that I don't need at all.

I am glad that my means are but slender;
I am glad that these birds are aware
That I cannot be much of a spender
And must husband my hoardings with care.
If I really had any resources,
I would buy many acres of lots,
Any number of motors and horses,
And probably three or four yachts.

As it is, when a salesman approaches
And begins, with professional skill,
To offer me speedsters or coaches
I am tempted to count up the till.
From my birth I have been a weak come-on
With whom talkers may do as they please;
And I need all the strength I can summon
To keep me in crackers and cheese.

PARAGRAPHS

By Robert Juillen

Too many Americans pray for a leader when they really want a tow.

And those who oppose the recovery plan will yell the loudest for somebody to save them if it fails.

The only satisfactory minimum wage is one that is also your neighbor's maximum.

Yet old-timers can remember when people didn't expect a Congressional appropriation when rain drowned their chickens.

But if unmarried women make the best school teachers, why didn't Nature entrust children to that kind?

THERE WERE GREAT LEADERS IN THE OLD DAYS BECAUSE A MAN DIDN'T HAVE TO "YES" THE FELLOW ABOVE HIM TO HOLD HIS JOB.

A civilized land is one that enriches criminals and starves teachers and preachers.

Note to parents: You were that same kind of idiots at 16, and look how well you turned out.

The easiest way to judge yourself is to observe which kind of people think you an ass.

AMERICANISM: Releasing the killer on bail; holding the "material witness" in jail.

The only objection to uplifting the heathen is that the work begins too far from home.

Saving the country is like saving a drowning man. Sometimes it is necessary to sock him on the jaw.

In the old days that slapping noise from the front-porch swing indicated reproof instead of mosquitoes.

MIDDLE-CLASS PEOPLE ARE THOSE WHO CAN'T MAKE THE FIRST PAGE BY DODGING THEIR INCOME TAX.

Big Business now reminds us of the drowning man who belatedly: "Heaven save me!" and then added, "Never mind, I've caught a log."

Weather bureau reports are useful, if only to provide the cheering news that other sections are suffering worse.

The thought of strikers spilling cans of milk seems especially horrible if you have ever tried to open a milk bottle with your thumb.

CORRECT THIS SENTENCE: "I WILL NOT SEND A FREE-BORN AMERICAN TO JAIL," SAID THE JUDGE, "MERELY BECAUSE HE CHOOSES TO BE A VAGRANT."

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

SOME DELUSIONS ABOUT CRIME

Yesterday I spoke of the necessity of a freshly conceived and vigorously executed drive to rid the nation of the epidemic of crime that has grown up in the post-war and prohibition period. While we are at the job it is important that we rid our minds of many delusions that have long underlain and undermined our treatment of the problem of crime and the criminals.

In the June and July issues of Harper's Magazine, Joseph Felling Fishman and Vee Terrys Pearlman have contributed two illuminating and fact-based articles on delusions about crime.

These articles merit a wide reading as we turn our attention nationally to the problem of decriminalizing the nation.

Here are eleven delusions that the authors contend the facts do not bear out:

(1) That every criminal has a better side to his nature and that if only that side can be reached he can be cured of his anti-social tendencies.
(2) That life prisoners are the most desperate and therefore the most difficult to handle.

(3) That prison riots are usually caused by ill-treatment of prisoners.

(4) That the underworld movie is a powerful incentive to crime.

(5) That a normal, peaceful life is impossible for an ex-convict because of relentless hounding by the police.

(6) That it is almost impossible for an ex-prisoner to get work.

(7) That there is honor among thieves.

(8) That the stool-pigeon system in prisons is thoroughly despicable and should be abolished.

(9) That the narcotic addict is the most dangerous and desperate of criminals.

(10) That the policeman's risks are greater than those of the prison guard.

(11) That prison officers walk about their institutions heavily armed and carrying a bunch of keys.

As national action on an anti-crime program proceeds I shall discuss some of the implications for policy of these and other delusions about crime and criminals. (Copyright, 1933, McClure Newspaper Syn.)

It was Saturday morning and father was home. Jackie loved having father home. Men do like their own company even when one is aged four and the other forty. Saturday was mother's busy day. The laundry man came early and that meant gathering and sorting and listing. The marketing had to be done and that meant poking in the refrigerator and scanning the closet shelves and hunting for the list that she "laid right there a moment ago." And of course somebody called her on the telephone.

"I'm sorry," said Nora, "but she says she must speak to you herself."

"Dear me, the whole world knocks at my door Saturday morning. Jackie, pick these things up this minute. The idea of scattering your things about the place as though nobody lived here but yourself. And Nora, for pity's sake, put the kitchen towels in the bag. They ought to have been in there long ago. Yes, yes, I'm going."

Jackie looked after her retreating form as she dashed to the telephone. Holding his retrieved belongings in both arms he gazed up at his father's serene face, shook his head with an air of "man to man," said solemnly, "And that's what I have to put up with every day."

Father dared not laugh and he dared not appear to sympathize so he said, "Come along now and help me get the garage in shape and after lunch you and mother and I will go for a drive. How would you like to go to the Zoo?" "I'd like it first rate but you'll have to park mother somewhere while we look at the snakes because she can't abide them."

Then father did laugh. It was the only thing left to do. Jackie joined in because he hated to miss a good laugh especially with his father. "Will you sweep or will you hold the hose?" asked father with all politeness.

"O, I'll take the hose. There's no use in your getting yourself all wet through and through. I guess I can manage it but I'd better put on my rubbers or mother will be right after me. That's the way with these mothers."

By and by father told mother about the conversation and she laughed merrily. "The young monkey. He's been repeating every-word and phrase he hears lately and sometimes he says startling things to the wrong people. He told Mrs. Wetherby to 'pick up your feet, why don't you, you'll get along faster.' The poor woman weighs two hundred and the walk was slippery so you can imagine how she felt. But she was good about it. She looked at him and saw that he was not being smart and pert, just interested, and she smiled at him and said, 'Pick up your own feet and carry them into your mother and tell her I'm coming.'"

"I don't want to notice him for fear he will think he is clever and make things worse, maybe discover that he can annoy people, and be purposely rude. He's just natural now, and funny, so I'm not noticing. I think he will learn very soon to consider his speech a little. I hope so."

He will. Meanwhile why not enjoy him? We don't get half enough fun out of our association with children. Enjoy them while you can for soon they go.
